Dear Supporter:

We are extremely interested in speaking to you about sponsorship of our event in 2006. JBead Foundation is a 501 © 3 non-profit corporation that offers financial assistance and other programs to underrepresented students from diverse backgrounds. The mission of JBead Foundation is to promote activities that improve rural educational, social, and economic conditions. The majority of our resources are geared toward developing and supporting programs, and partnerships that promote educational opportunity and inclusion for people in underserved communities in the U.S. and around the world. It is our intent to work in conjunction with other program partners and sponsors to provide not only access, but also education that informs, connects, and educates the communities we serve and those supportive of our mission.

This annual event is our most important gathering of citizens, corporations, business leaders, and educators to come together to share the agenda and examine the condition of higher education, while working towards equal access for young professionals who enter institutions of higher learning.

JBead Foundation would like to gather as many corporations, companies, communities, educational institutions and businesses to share this vision of creating opportunities for young professionals from diverse backgrounds. Our task is to build partnerships between the public and private sector, higher education, congress and assembly members, community leaders, major corporations, foundations and local business leaders. The ties between industry and academia allow a valuable interchange of ideas and energy, which are key to building corporate structures such as JBead Foundation.

Most recently, Black Enterprise Magazine has signed on as a sponsor of our 2006 event. Black Enterprise Magazine is a supporter for the Ronald Larry Scholarship Fund. You can go to this link and view the fund at http://www.jbeadfoundation.com/donate_ronald.html. We look forward to adding your company to our prestigious list of sponsors in the near future. I have attached a sponsorship document for your review. I look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Jeffery Butler, Ph.D.
